there is no mysterious allence—there has been no unrecessary delay. The principal facts have been again and again stated.

The administration of General Taylor negotiated the safe prosecution of the great undertaking of a canal across the Isthmus, at this point. This treaty has been natified and published, and everybody has seen or may

That administration, also, negotiated a treaty with Nicaragua, through the agency of Mr. Squier. That treaty, also, was sent to the Senate, but with a recomndation, as is understood, that it should not be rati-Sed without important amendments inasmuch as some of its articles came in conflict with the treaty between the United States and Great Britain. In this state of things, Mr. Clayton deemed it advisable to write to the government of Nicaragua, to send an agent here, clothed with full powers, under the idea that a modification of the treaty, or the negotiation of a new one to take its place, might best be done in Washington. This was in the summer of last year. No answer was received to the communication until December last, when this govern-ment was informed by that of Nicaragua, that the suggestion had been complied with, and that Mr. Marcoletta then in Europe, had been, or would be, appointed Mini ster Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary, with in Structions to repair immediately to Washington.

Circumstances detained Mr. Marcoletta in England and he did not arrive at the seat of the American govern ment until about the end of the late session of Congress. He was then presented to the Prosident in his character of Minister Pienipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary, and a readinese expressed to enter into communications with him upon the subject of his mission.

him upon the subject of his mission.

Mr. Marcoletta is understood to be a gentleman of character, and of much intelligence; and although he has not had an actual residence in Nicaragua, yet he will, doubtiess, prove himself an able representative of his go-vernment, and friendly to all the great interests which Ought to unite the two countries.

In the mean time, the United States had had no diplomatic agent at Nicaragua since the recall of Mr. Squier; and as Mr. Marcoletta had come in the character of full minister, and as it was known, also, that a full minister was to come from Costa Rica, Mr. Webster recom mended to Congress, through the committees, to make an appropriation for the appointment of one Minister Plenitiary and Envoy Extraordinary, to be accredited, not only to Nicaragua, but to Guatemaia. Costa Rica, San Salvador, and Honduras. The effect of this would be to Salvador, and Honduras. The effect of this would be to merge five minor missions into one full mission; and if the recommendation had been compiled with, it was Mr. Webster's purpose to have appointed some gentleman of high standing and character, capable of maintaining all the interests of the United States in those regions, and likely, also, by the weight of his influence and advice, to render important services to those several governments. They are all small—all of them containing, probably, not so many people as the city of New York. They have no general bond of union; on the contrary, furious and wasting wars rage between some of them, and angry disputes about territories and boundaries exist between others.

But sithough the committees were in favor of Mr. Webster's proposition, and made all the efforts, they could to carry it into effect, yet it was lost by the harangely procrastinated debate on the River and Harbor bill, at the end of the session. Under these circumstances, the Honorable James Boswell Kerr, of Maryland, a member of the last Congress, who had been designated for another branch of difformatic service, was nominated and appointed Charge d'Affaires to Nicaragua. Mr. Kerr is a gentleman of eminent taients, of accomplished education and manners; has a knowledge of the Spanish language, and is of great prudence and firmness in affairs. He is now engaged in settling his own concerns on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, and will depart for his post in about twenty days. It is rumored, although It cannot vouch for it, that while only accredited to the government of Nicaragua. Mr. Kerr will be requested, so far as he can, to visit the other States and governments, to inquire into their condition, respectively, and the nature and extent of their mutual controversies, assuring them all that the government of the United States seeks for itself, in Central America, no peculiar advantages, while it is not disposed to see such peculiar advantages conceded to any of their mutual controversies, assuring them all that the government of the United States seeks for itself, in Central America, no peculiar advantages, while it is not disposed to see such peculiar advantages conceded to any other governments. He will state to these government that it is the earnest wish of the government of the United States, to see Central America re-united in one respectable whole, on principles of confederation, or constitutional union. Or, if this cannot be done, Mr. Kerr will exhort them all to cease their mutual wars, and to forbear from destroying one another, until in some other mode perimanent peace shall be established among them. It may be added, that nothing has occurred to weaken the confidence and feeling of security on the part of those concerned in the great undertaking of the canal; that the government does and will confer, fully and frankly, with the persons interested in that great enterprise, in everything connected with their interest. It is presumed they have no doubt of this. And, finally, the country may take it for granted, that while there is an axious desire on the part of the government to preserve peace with Engiand, as well as with all other nations, there will be no yielding to any unjust pretensions of hers, if any

The Great Flore Up-The Committee-The Investigation

Never since the time when the Senate of this State expelled John C. Kemble and Lease Bishop, members of that body, on charges of bribery and corruption, has such an excitement existed at the Capitol, as there has been since Saturday morning. The stigma cast upon the Senate, by the attempt of one of its officers to inti-mate that he could approach three of its members with a bribe, was felt so deeply that every member of the Legis-Isture-of the House as well as the Senate-deemed the most thorough investigation to be necessary. The memgreat State, and, as guardians, it becomes their duty as honorable men, that they should be preserved untar-

the three whose characters had been most wantonly assailed by one of their own officers. From the letters of Bull and the affidavit of Suydam, which flew through the country with railroad speed, the people became amazed at the revelations conin those papers. They are Senators of the Empire State, known heretofore as being high-minded. dignified, and as honorable as any of their colleagues.

tained in those papers. They are Senators of the Empire State, known heretefore as being high-minded, dignified, and as honorable as any of their colleagues. They were accused of bribery—of collusion with one of the officers who held place at their will—of preventing the passage of an important bill which one of their own number had sureduced in the Senate, the passage of which he originally desired. Those Senators had not only an elevated character of their own to vindicate, but they also had the responsibility of keeping the Senate as spure as Cesar's wife. This they well knew and felt; and when the developements were first made on Friday last, all of them, each one for himself, rose in his place in the Senate chamber, demanding an immediate and thorough investigation of the charges which, by implication, Bull had made squinct them.

Upon the arrival of Suydam, this morning, the select committee—consisting of Mesers, Morgan, Mann, and Dinnmick—proceeded to the library of the Senate chamber. The witnesses examined were Suydam, Budi, and three Senators, which consumed the entire day down to six o'clock this evening, too late for a report to be made to the Senators, which consumed the entire day down to six o'clock this evening, too late for a report to be made to the Senators, and if any mortals ever repented for having put their bands to that paper. But they along: it was a favor they thought of no account, of no consequence in the load, which one of their own is worn? officers desired them to grant; and innocently, unconsclous of the least disparagement of their Senatorial character, they estired them to grant; and innocently, unconsclous of the least disparagement of their Senatorial character, they estired the stare in the firmment if they could have prevented the sacursion to New York.

Here in Albany, and at their own homes, where those goodleanen are well known, their characters will not suffer from this expose. But the story is upon the wings of the wind, and wherever telegraphs, and railroads, and stag

A great benefit, it is hoped, will result from this timely exposure. It will put members on their guard against the wily arts of lobby loafers. Very few people of this fiste are aware of the systematic efforts of lobby agonts. They have become regularly organized, and at every session of the Legislature they appear here, offering their cruices to raitroad companies, either villages, all manner of corporate bodies, and those who desire to become so.

They remain from the commencement of the session, and style themselves agents to attend to the passage of such bills as they exhibit, importuning mombers, and dictating to them the details of bills, as their employers may desire. They are a set of impudent and insolent vampyres, whose vocation gives them a warranty to the approach of members which strangers at the capital never dare assume. There are men of this description now here, who have been urging forward dozens of bills since the session commenced, some of which they have succeeded in getting through the Legislature, to the wonder of the members themselves. The developments which have been made within the last three days, it is hoped will induce honorable members to shake off these intermeddlers altogether.

The Law of Espara—Protection to English Subjects—The New Administration—The Steamer Libertador.

I find but little to communicate which would tend to interest the American public. Congress is in session; they have before them several questions—one is an appropriation to indemnify British subjects for losses under the law of Espara.

Great Britain protects her subjects-they always feel secure, and, consequently, are always respected for the same reason. Not so with Americans—they have to sufsame reason. Not so with Americans—they have to suffer every degradation; their government heeds them not; the great expense of ministers and charges d'affaires is not to render services to their country, but merely to reward partizan politicians. These official agents invariably assert that they have no instructions—they have no discretionary power; consequently their hands are tied; they remain until they are recalled, go home, pocket their salaries from the taxes of the people, and no questions are asked. Not so with Great Britain' If an uajust sentence is pronounced in the tribunals against her subjects, she will make the government respond for the iniquity of her tribunals.

This government is getting along better than was expected; the military despotism which prevailed under the last administration has ceased to exist. The present ministers are Lucio Pulido, of the Interior and Justice; José Maria Herres, of the Treasury and Foreign Affairs; and General Salom, of War and the Navy.

There has been a motion—pending some time before Congress, for a general reprieve for all political offences, and to allow all the citizens of Venezuela to return to their homes, but the government are opposed to it, saying the time has not yet arrived. The next Congress will restore all the exities, it is believed.

The investigation is still pending in respect to the steamer Libertador, built at Philadelphia. Report has stated that the Minister of the Treasury and the Minister of the Navy, each received ten thousand dollars for their votes to have the steamer built, and that Mrs. Monagas, the late President's wife, had a pull at the wires by way of advancing money; at all events, the bills amount to $164,000, and it is asserted that the steamer could not have cost more than $40,000.

Theatrical and Musical.

Bowray Theatric.—The performances for this evening are for the benefit of Miss C. Wemyss. a young lady whose talents entitle her to a response, on behalf of the public, worthy of her merits and their discornment. The ever attractive play of the "Lady of Lyons," and the excellent and moral comedy of "All that Glitters is not fold," are selected as the entertainments; these, together with songs. &c. are sufficiently attractive in themselves, and admitted by all to be the most inestimable productions of the present day, but when produced for the benefit of this young lady, they cannot fall to draw an overflowing house. The characters of Pauline in the "Lady of Lyons," and Martha follows. We hope the Bowery theatre may be crammed in which Miss Wemyss is held as an actress.

Broadway Theatrac.—Miss Julia Bennettle engagement is drawing to a close, this evening being her last but three, on which occasion she will sustain the character of Clara. In Bulwer's admired play of "Money," and those who have witnessed this lady's artistic powers in genteel cemely, will doubtless be anxious to see her in the more serious and beautiful character of Clara Douglas. Miss Bennett will be assisted by Conway, Davidge, Scharf, and others of the company, so well calculated to give effect and force to the cutting sarcasms contained in this sterling comedy. The performances will conclude with the excellent old farce of "A Roland for an Oliver." Miss Julia Bennett, as the fascinating Maria Darlington, will introduce a new song, entitied "The Star of Love." written by George P. Morris, and arranged by the eminent composer. W. Vincent Wallace. The house still continues to be crowded to excess nightly, and the management to promoser. We wincent wallace. NATIONAL THEATRE.—Purely still continues in a career of success. This is principally owing to the great exertion which he makes in order to please his patrons. The entertainments will commence with the play of "A New Way to Pay Old Debts," with Mr. Booth, the great tragedian, as Sir Glies Overreach. Watkins as Welborn, La Favor as Lord Lovell, Miss E. Mestayer as Margaret Overreach, and Miss Hathaway as Lady Allworth. Miss Malvina will appear in a favorite dance, and the entertainments will conclude with the admired comedy of "All that Glitters is not Gold." Maivina will appear in a favorite dance, and the entertainments will conclude with the admired comedy of All that Glitters is not Gold." This bill is sufficient to attract an immense audience, on any ordinary night; but when such an actor as Booth, who for a long term of years has always been looked upon as the great actor, and a brilliant representative of the old school, appears in one, of his best characters, we should not be jourprised if many were obliged to return to their home, being unable to gain admission.

Bestoriam's Lycrem.—This well conducted and fashionable temple of dramatic entertainment presents night after night an array of talent on the stage and beauty is the house which it is delightful to behold. This evening will be presented Brougham's admirable version of Dembey and Son;" "The King and the Mimic," and "My Friend Jack." Brougham will be at home in his own parts, and Ducy-Barre will dance a "Masourka" with Mr. Smith. On Friday night, Miss Kate Horn, a young lady of many virtues and great talent, an established and deserved favorite in this country, takes her first benefit, and no lady in the dramatic world has elicited more general and universal admiration by the propriety of her demeanor—the chasteness of her style—the clearness of her enunciation—the versatility of her talent, and the ability she evinces in every character she undertaket. "All that Glitters is not Gold," is one of the pieces selected for the occasion is a great one—the lady is a great favorite—this is a great country, and we have no doubt we will have the pleasure of seeing, on Friday night, a great favorite—this is a feat country, and we have no doubt we will have the pleasure of seeing, on Friday night, a great house at Brougham's great Lyceum.

Charty's Massaran.—This celebrated band continues darw as crowded houses as ever. The programme for this evening contains several beautiful negro melodies, instrumental performances, and exquisite danc ing.

Bantar's Mussaran.—There will be an afternoon and evening performanc in probably his best part. The large museum is all the time open, without any other charge than that of admission.

New York Circus.—Jane's amphitheatre, in the Bowery, is still doing an excellent business, and the superbriding of the charming and accomplished equestricane. Mile Leause Tourniaire, is nightly received with enthusiastic appliance. The elegant and thrilling scene of equestrianism entitled "La Gitana," surpasses all the other efforts of this distinguished artist. It should be witnessed by every one. This siternoon, a day performance is amounteed for the accommodation of families, and for afternoon and evening highly attractive bills are announced.

Colescum.—Horn and White's company of minstrels will appear this evening, and display their vocal and instrumental abilities.

The New Obliness Serenadas were greeted on Monday evening, at the Tripler Hall, with an immense audience, a thing never known in the annals of Ethiopishiem. They give another concert at Tripler Hall, on Friday evening, of this week, being positively their last appearance, as they have to meet other engagements. They are a talented company, and deserve all the encouragement they receive.

The Alexanarians had another full house, at the Hope Chapel, last evening. Their singing surpasses anything of the kind ever attempted in this city. Their third concert takes place this evening.

Mr. Vasnesnery is repeating his popular entertainments of Evenings with Sheridan, "at the Society Library. His readings of "The Rivais," preceded by a fachionable audience, on Monday evening. He read the characters of Sir Anthony Absolute and Boh Acres, particularly, with great effect. To-night, he reads the Teheol for Senatal," the most popular comedy on the stage.

Court of Appeals.

Before a full Bench.

Arant 1.—No. 1.—Simeon P. Huff, plaintiff and appellant, vs. Shepherd Knappe. Chamberlain of the city of New York, defendant and appelled.—This was an appeal from the judgment of the three additional justices of the Superior Court of the city of New York. The cause was reforred to them for decision by the justices of the Superior Court, appealed from turns wholly on one point—that the Marine Court has no authority to appoint a crier; and this point is, therefore, the only one for argument before the Court of Appeals. It is understood, moreover, that this is the only ground on which the Common Council of the city of New York resists the payment of plaintiff's demand for salary as crier of that court, and that if this point shall be decided in his favor, they will settle his claim without delay. The plaintiff contends that the authority to appoint a crier of that court, and that if this new York is not of record, and, as such possesses authority to appoint a crier; and, also that the Marine Court has authority to appoint a crier; and, also that the Marine Court has authority to appoint a crier inflour for the city of New York, is not a court of record, and does not possesse the powers incident to a common law court of record, and toot, therefore, authorized to appoint a crier, it having no statutory authority for that purpose.

Ms. G. De Sissean.—Among the departures which the circles of Washington seciety have cause just now to regret, is that of Mr. G. De Sibbern. Charge d'Affaires and Consul-General of His Majesty the King of Sweden and Norway, who left this city a few days ago on a visit to New York. This gentleman has resided among us since early in January last although his formal presentation to the chief magbetrate was by some accident or other not mentioned at the time. Mr. De Sibbern, previously to his appointment to the post he at present so worthily occupies, was Secretary of Legation and Charge d'Affaires ad interim near the Court of St. James, where his polished manners and amiable deportment won for him general respect. During his short residence in Washington he has conciliated the esteem of all who have had the pleasure of making his acquaintance.—National Intelligence:

Arrest of a Murrberer.—We learn from the Norfolk Herald, that Uriah Cherry, who shot and killed his own brother, Solomon Cherry, at Deep Creek, on Tuesday night, was arrested on Thursday, in the woods, not far from his own dwelling, where he had concealed himself. Another unnatural feature of this most unnatural transaction is, that the prisoner's own daughtor was the only witness to the bloody deed.

CITY TRADE REPORT.

TURBLAY, April 1—6 P. M.

Ashes.—Pearls have advanced, and were in good demand, at $5 81. Pots ruled dull, at $5 a $5 12. The saies were 75 barrels. Receipts very small.

Bernwax.—With a steady market, sales were made of 3,000 lbs, yellow, at 26c., cash.

Bernsatures.—Flour—Only a moderate business was done in State and Western to-day, and the market for the latter was easier. The better kinds were steady, but not active. The transactions include 4500 bbls., at $418 a $431 for Nq. 2 super; $444 a $450 for common to straight State; $450 a $4683, for mixed to fancy Indiana and Michigan; $462 a $475 for Ohio and New Oricans, and $457 a $5 for pure Genesco. DR. RALPH, AUTHOR OF THE "PRACTICAL PRIVATE Transise," & t.—Office hours, 9 to 12 A. M., 6 to 5 P. M., (Sinday secepted.) No. 88 Greenwish street. It has been a matter of surprise to some, that any one of respeciability and of professional attainments should devote his attention to the diseases which people of every description pretend to cure so easily. H. however, the thousandth part of the miseries those people bring upon society were harowa, a very different opinion would be formed. And it is not night to the different opinion would be formed. And it is not only the present misery and dejection, preying on the mind as well as the body, but mens are of such mature as to affect posterity, and even to destroy the reproductive faculty aliegt there. It is a fact that, when no properly treated, they may remain so dormant in the constitution as to appear in no other way than in their effects upon posterity; set, if prupely understood, are most easily and speedily removed. From the uncommon medical advantages list author has enjoyed, and a very extensive and long practice in this speciality, he has ample ground for lasuring a permanent cure, in cases of circitorue, however complicated or old-attending it may be; and that, in any stage of certain appears of their consequences, as well as the deplorable of feets resulting from early improper habits, he can insura not certain, safe, and radical cures as can be obtained free no other source in America.
